

Karen Huggins

Karen holds a B.A. in English from Miami University, Oxford, Ohio; a B.A. in Latin American Studies from the University of Calgary; and an M.A. in Peace Education from the United Nations-mandated University for Peace in Costa Rica. Her research interests have included autonomy and transnational advocacy, sustainable development, participatory democracy, and consumerism and peace.

Karen believes that we need to foster a society based on human need, not on rampant extraction of our natural resources, consumerism, and war. As a practitioner of peace who is firmly grounded in peace education theory and practice, she is an avid supporter of peaceful solutions to our seemingly intractable problems and believes that a culture of peace is possible.

Karen is very enthusiastic about building a better world for ALL people, and believes that by working in community we can achieve great things!
